

Spinal Injury

We are currently litigating more spinal injury cases than any other law firm in the UK. We deal with accidents however and wherever they occur.

We appreciate that the demands of those with spinal injuries are substantial and complex. Our lawyers handle smaller caseloads than the majority of personal injury lawyers, to ensure a proactive and highly-focused legal service.

In cases where liability is unlikely to be strongly contested, we obtain interim payments. These are used to purchase accommodation, equipment and the setting up of care regimes.

When a case is won, we assist with the setting up of trusts to protect means tested benefits and on the investment of damages through our links with specialist lawyers and financial advisors.

Anyone who has suffered a spinal cord injury should seek legal advice as to whether a claim for compensation can be made.

“Stewarts provides a fantastic service on all levels and has a flawless understanding of each case, particularly the client’s diagnosis and personal needs”
